

Name: Annalisa Abell

Title: Administrative Fellow

Region: Lima

Department: Hospital Operations

Education / Degree: MPA, BA

Background

Annalisa Abell is one of our 2017 Administrative Fellows from Louisville, KY. She received her Bachelors of Arts in Spanish and Global Studies from the University of Kentucky. While attending the University of Kentucky, Annalisa worked as a campus leader focusing on diversity education and community building. She also worked as a research student with Dr. Jicha from the University of Kentucky hospital in neurology. During her time in undergrad, Annalisa earned an opportunity to study abroad in Costa Rica and volunteer at a local clinic in Santo Domingo, Ecuador.

She earned a Master's of Public Administration degree from Morehead State University with a specialization in nonprofit development and healthcare systems management. While attending graduate school full-time, Annalisa worked full-time in the department of radiology in several different roles at the University of Kentucky hospital in Lexington, KY. She worked on various committees that focused on patient satisfaction, standardizing radiology transport's transfer worksheets and as an ambassador for their health access committee.

Among her many accomplishments, Annalisa is most proud of her last project in radiology that focused on standardizing a communication system for radiology appointments to improve the "no-show" rate for radiology outpatient services in the hospital. Some of Annalisa's professional interest include hospital operations and human resources.
